Danish design in world class, German quality at the highest level and Blüthner craftsmanship. Combine all this and you get the most unique and luxurious grand piano in the world with a true and true history and design - the PH Grand Piano. Creative genius Poul Henningsen introduced his mind-altering design in 1931. At that time, it was a total departure from general perception of piano design — and it still belongs to the future. Look ahead twenty years. Now look again. There's nothing else like it, and there never will be. It's the first time you see a grand piano in a new light — and it changes everything. The wooden box is turned into a thing of transparent beauty. It doesn't take up space - it's space. And it creates a place. A place for thought. This is what music looks like. And what you see is what you hear. The sound is brilliant and crystal clear like the concept of the design itself. If you ever get it to play it, that is. Because you can't take your eyes off it. The PH Grand Piano combines elements of the Bauhaus tradition, fine arts, modernist architecture, modern design and the more traditional organic forms. It's a contemporary artwork. Steel and leather bound with a lightness of being. Graceful legs dance to the beat of another drummer. A cover made from crystal clear celluloids, allowing transparency and a view of the felt hammers as their movement turns into sound. It's a piano made at the highest quality standards, but it's not just a traditional black box. The PH Grand piano is a modern timeless tool. It lifts the surroundings, radiates luxury, and leads thoughts to the surroundings of an air bar, a fashionable hotel, a highly luxurious yacht and the penthouse apartment. The PH Grand Piano is a symbol of functionality and represents Poul Henningsen's personal ideal of simplicity above all else. In 1931, Poul Henningsen's Bauhaus inspired design sensibilities led him to pull out of the 'traditional' piano. Poul Henningsen saw no reason to conceal the beating heart of this musical instrument in a wooden box, choosing instead to reveal the core of the instrument to the world — where he had to cover it, he used the most minimal transparent enclosure. The result was a piano that appeared lighter, less obstruive and with more organic fluid lines than ever before. Today, the PH Grand Piano is produced to the same design specifications, which were built by Blüthner in Leipzig to that this musical instrument synonymous the subtleties of tone and action with the best modern modern in the world today. The PH Grand Piano is handmade by Blüthner and fulfills any expectations at a professional level. The PH Grand Piano is the sound of vision. The beauty lies on the inside and that's what's inside that counts. But how do you create a sound that matches the transparent beauty of the PH Grand Piano? Go back 150 years, travel to the cultural heart of Europe and visit the city of Leipzig, Germany. Ask Julius Blüthner — and follow the golden tone until you arrive at his piano-forte factory, the most reared German piano maker. Take a deep breath, you're one of the great. Brahms, Liszt, Mahler, Schumann and Tschaikovsky were all welcome guests in the Blüthner house. The outstanding technical and musical qualities of Blüthner pianos are legendary. Combine all this with a lofty Danish design - and what do you get? Sleepless nights until you own one! The case and component of the PH Grand Piano is infinitely adaptable. It is possible for all the piano's metal aspects to be presented in the colors and finishes of any individual choice. Similarly, it is possible to adjust the leather strap to all preferences and interior settings. In addition, the PH Grand Piano is available with a unique self-player system; the system can be controlled by any device (smartphone or tablet) and turn the PH Grand Piano into the most sophisticated Danish design icon that plays on all senses in life! Basically, the options and opportunities for customization are endless and it's all about creating the PH Grand Piano with an identity as unique as its owner! In 1930, I designed something completely new within the branch, and the result was this glass piano. My idea was that the piano is one of the few instruments played in his box. After all, a violin is taken from his case. The traditional wrapping of the piano has therefore always been a piece of furniture in the style of time. I wanted to make it a tool and maybe even improve its sound. The large wooden construction that supports the iron frame and is the sounding plate, like a book, bound in red oasis goat skin. The lid is made of plexiglass, which was then the latest and most expensive material. The music stand is part of the top and runs along the entire front of the piano. The legs are forgivably tossed and chrome plates. They were bent down to give way to the drummer's instruments, including the big drum - Poul Henningsen Henningsen
